

The Selected Poems of Donald Hall

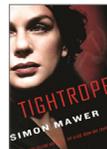

By Donald Hall

(Houghton Mifflin Harcourt, 9780544555600, $22)

"This is a gift of honesty, intimacy, and the pure genius that is Donald Hall, as he hand-picks what he considers to be the best of his poetry from more than 70 years of published works. From this former U.S. Poet Laureate comes one essential volume of his works, where 'Ox-Cart Man' sits alongside 'Kicking the Leaves' and 'Without'. As he is no longer writing poetry, this 'concise gathering of my life's work' is the perfect introduction to Hall's literary contributions, as well as closure for his many ardent followers."

Revisit & Rediscover

Take a fresh look at these old favorites.

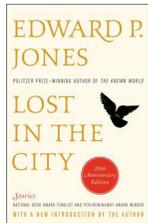

Wild Swans: Three Daughters of China

By Jung Chang
(Touchstone, 9780743246989, $18)
Originally published in hardcover in 1991
"The wrenching swiftness of cultural change in China comes alive in Jung Chang's memoir of 3 generations of women in her family. Her grandmother's feet are bound as a baby to secure her future as a general's concubine, while her parents must routinely demonstrate their loyalty to Mao's Communist Party above their family. Chang herself is inducted into the Red Guard while her parents suffer re-education during the Cultural Revolution. The rapid changes play out with devastating force in this memorable book."

Lost in the City: Stories

By Edward P. Jones
(Amistad, 9780062193216, $14.99)
Originally published in hardcover in 1992

"The stories of Edward P. Jones are deeply grounded in the geography of Washington, D.C.—in the black side of the city, not the "land of white people," as one character puts it. For all their realism, these stories have the quality of fables, summing up lives and their consequences (not necessarily the ones they've earned) in an astonishing way that's made him the District's most essential writer."

—Tom Nissley, Phinney Books, Seattle, WA

About Grace: A Novel

By Anthony Doerr
(Scribner, 9781476789019, $16)
Originally published in hardcover in 2004

"Having fled the wife and child he loves to prevent a death his dreams have forecast, David Winkler washes up in the Caribbean, where he is becalmed for 25 years before returning in search of them—and of redemption. We grow to care for this lost dreamer and for the natural world he inhabits, bewitched as always by Doerr's dazzling prose and his abiding compassion."

—Betsy Burton, The King's English Bookshop, Salt Lake City, Utah
